A BIG HOAX

Chicago Detectives Make Claim That the Umbria Bomb Could Not Go Off.

IT HAD NO CAP ON

Despite This Theory, the Police Are Still Looking for Rousseau, the Red.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.) Chicago, May 16.—Detectives working upon the information sent to the Umbria, claim to have positive evidence that the entire thing was a big hoax, but why it was perpetrated they do not know or cannot explain.

No Cap. They claim the machine found in the hold of the Umbria was so arranged that it could not go off at all and that the most vital part of the whole machine, the fuelling cap, was missing, making it useless as a bomb.

Still at Work. Despite the fact that this is the decision of the department as given out for publication many of the city's best detectives are still working on the case and trying to find Rousseau who is thought to have made it.

PLOT TO MURDER
THE PRESIDENT

Oakland Police Are Warned, and Keep Close Watch Over the Chief Executive.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.) San Francisco, Cal., May 16.—The police of Oakland, a suburb of this city, have admitted that they had been informed that there was a plot to assassinate President Roosevelt during his visit to that city.

This admission explains the extreme diligence which was exercised by the police department in guarding President Roosevelt during his journey through and visit in Oakland. Mayor Olney received a communication signed "K. N.," stating that two men named Charles Girardo and Antonio Polivino, the latter an Italian, who tried to kill the emperor of Austria before St. Stephen's church in Vienna on May 13, 1897, had agreed to meet at Girardo's house to discuss the killing of the president. The writer added:

"I heard that Girardo was in correspondence with Czolgosz at Los Angeles."

The police decline to go into further details regarding the matter, though it is hinted that the letter may be the work of a crank.

President Roosevelt got an early start for the Yosemite. He reached Raymond at 7:30 o'clock a. m. and there took a stage for the big tree country. A woman was reached at 11:15. The ride from Raymond was a dusty one, and the members of the party presented a bedraggled appearance as the coaches drove up to the station.

Shakes Hands With Girl.

At Grub Gulch the president was presented with flowers by a number of little girls. He alighted from the stage and shook hands with his small admirers and spoke a few words of greeting to the grown-up folks assembled.

He arrived at the entrance of the Mariposa big tree grove at 4 o'clock p. m., where he was met by a detachment of horse and two forest rangers with two saddle horses. The president rode among the grand sequoias and through the park on horseback, accompanied by John Muir, who is familiar with the big tree country and the Yosemite national park.

The offer was made by a man of standing in the community and the governor was told that the money was ready for him whenever the persons named were appointed.

Governor Mickey will not give the name of the man who sought to bribe him nor of the men whose appointment was asked for. Neither will he state what action, if any, he intends to take.

RAILROAD MEN DEFY
CITY AUTHORITIES

Five Thousand Citizens Gather to Prevent Workmen From Laying a Switch Track at Newport.

Newport, R. I., May 16.—Mayor Doyle has declared the city of Newport to be in a state of riot, as the climax of trouble between the police stationed on Broadway and a gang of track layers employed by the Old Colony Street railway, who intended to lay a switch in face of an order not to do so.

The riot call was sounded on the fire bells, the fire department was placed in readiness to help the police and Mayor Doyle as the commanding civil officer arranged to have the Newport artillery and the Newport company of the naval reserve called out.

The situation was threatening for a couple of hours, but the fifty workmen were scared by the overwhelming numbers, fully 5,000 men standing ready to back up Mayor Doyle and the police. The city council has made permanent the mayor's order forbidding the Old Colony Railway Company to lay the switch.

DYNAMITE WRECKS A CHURCH

Pastor Had Told His Flock Negroes Should Not Seek to Rule.

Evansville, Ill., May 16.—A dynamite explosion wrecked the interior of the Ebenezer African Methodist church, Benson avenue, Evansville, and created a panic in the neighborhood, which is largely colored. Fire followed, but the flames were speedily subdued by the combined efforts of the police and fire department.

The explosive was placed under the platform of the church, and the force of the shock completely demolished the rostrum, pulpit and furniture, tore a large hole in the floor, shattered every window and brought down the entire ceiling of the auditorium.

The dynamiting of the church is supposed to have been the result of a sermon by the Rev. I. N. Daniels, the pastor, in which the speaker criticized the attitude of many of the negroes in this country, declaring that they must do as the white men do and, in effect, telling them not to seek to rule.

NEW PHASE TO YEAGER CASE

The Testimony Before Coroner's Jury Clears Ingles and Eades Boys.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.) Kokomo, Ind., May 16.—That Lewis Yeager was shot to death, possibly by a woman, on a lonely country road, was definitely settled at the coroner's inquest by witnesses who saw the man a short time before he was murdered, and even heard the pistol shot.

The precise spot where the tragedy occurred has been located, and strains of blood were found, bearing out the testimony given.

Shortly after 1 o'clock Monday morning Yeager was with an unknown woman in the carriage with him drove past the Pickering farm along the road which divides Howard and Tipton counties, and about five miles from Hamlet. Frank Burns and Oscar and Evan Pickering saw the rig and recognized Yeager.

Hear the Shot. Closely following the first buggy was a second. This also contained a man and a woman. It was too dark to recognize the other three persons. The rigs could not have gone but a short distance when they stopped and an argument seemed to be going on.

One of the witnesses thought he heard the woman threaten to "fix" the dead man, but he could not be sure of the words.

The strange man interfered with a "Now don't do—," and his voice was smothered by a seeming protest from the other woman.

Shortly after this the shot was fired and the three who heard the trouble saw no more of either rig.

It was an hour later that Fred Johnson, while returning home, passed the Yeager rig.

"Good morning," he sang out, but his friend made no response. Yeager was dead. His body leaped far over from the buggy seat, but Johnson had no idea that anything was amiss.

Clears the Suspects. He went on home, little thinking that a knowing horse was taking a corpse along the country road toward the Yeager home.

Yeager when found was leaning out of the buggy with head between the buggy bows and shoes wedged under the iron foot rest to keep the dead body from falling. In this position the horse carried him home.

The theory of Coroner Harrison is that Yeager, after leaving the home of Miss Finley at 10 o'clock, went south and fell in with the unknown woman and man.

The testimony clears Ingles and the Eades boys, now under arrest, and they will be released.

NOVEL METHOD FOR RAILWAYS

French Have a Plan to Communicate with Trains by Telephone.

Experiments were carried out recently by a section of the French state railway between Chemu and Chateau la Valliere, in the Carthe department, with a system of automatic electric signaling destined, says the London Standard, to induce the possibility of collision between railway trains to a minimum. The system is the invention of a Spanish engineer, Senor Bassanta; but it has been taken up by numerous French deputies, and notably by M. Constant, one of the members of the state department. A large party, including engineers from all the French railway companies and a number of deputies, journeyed to Chateau la Valliere to witness a demonstration of the new system upon the section of the railway where it has been laid down.

The system consists of the application of the telephone to railway trains. Upon each of the trains used a modified telephone receiver and transmitter is fitted. To one of the axles of the engine or guard's van a small dynamo is attached, developing the required electric energy, while a shoe or trolley affixed to the axle trails along a special wire which has to be fitted along the track and the holders of which are driven into the sleepers. As with the block system, the line is divided into sections, and at each section end, which may be a railway station or signal box, there are fitted special telephone transmitters and receivers.

By these means the shoe, which slides along the wire, forms the circuit with each section end, and it is possible for the persons in charge of the signal box or station to at any moment enter into communication with the driver or guard of the train or visa-versa. By an ingenious device, if a second train gets onto any section before the first train has left, its alarm bells ring on both trains. One or both of the trains can then pull up, and a conversation as to the cause to be adopted can be held between the two. The experts who

IT WILL BE HELD AT FOOTVILLE NEXT WEEK.

THE PROGRAM IS ARRANGED

Several Janesville People Will Talk—Session To Last Three Days.

Footville will be the gathering point on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 26th and 27th, for Sunday school workers for all quarters of the county. On those days the Rock county Sunday school association will hold its thirty-fifth annual convention. The Disciple church will be used for the sessions. The general topic of the convention is "Finding and Feeling."

Dr. F. T. Richards of this city is president of the association and J. T. Wright, also of this city, is superintendent of Sunday school missions. The other officers are W. L. Dobson of Beloit, vice-president; Miss Cora Ross of Beloit, secretary; and E. C. Patch of Clinton, treasurer. During the convention Evelyn K. Little of Clinton will act as musical director.

The people of Footville will royally entertain and welcome the convention. Delegates are to notify E. A. Ross of their intention of being present as early as possible. Each Sunday school is entitled to two delegates beside the pastor and superintendent. All are requested to bring Bible, pencil and note book.

If the Baby Is Cutting Teeth

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy, MRS. WISLON'S SOOTHING SYRUP, for children's teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

CATARH IS CURABLE.

Peoples Drug Co., Guarantee to Cure Worst Case or Will Refund Money. The average person with catarrh has suffered for years and finally reached the conclusion that nothing can cure it. Until the discovery of Hyomel, this belief was undoubtedly correct.

Hyomel has made so many cures of chronic and deep-seated cases of catarrh, that it is today recognized as a specific for this disease. It cures by a new principle, impregnating the air you breathe with healing balsams, and not by pills, drugs or stomach dosing. People who have suffered with catarrh since childhood have been cured completely by this scientific remedy.

The Hyomel outfit costs $1.00 and consists of a neat inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomel Extra bottles of Hyomel can be obtained for 50c. It is the most economical of all remedies and is the only one that is based upon Nature's method of curing diseases of the respiratory organs.

Peoples Drug Co., seen such remarkable results following the use of Hyomel that they extend an invitation to the worst cases of catarrh in Janesville and vicinity to call at their store and obtain a Hyomel outfit with the distinct understanding that it will be absolutely free unless it effects a cure. This remarkable an unusual offer is the strongest proof that can be given of Hyomel's power to cure catarrh.

A Remarkable Sale

The Gazette advertising solicitor a few days ago was handed a cake of soap to try by the Badger Drug company, which he reported of remarkable fragrance and purity.

Upon inquiring we were informed that it was the Violet de Parne soap, well known for its purity, and advertised by the large department stores in Chicago at 17c per cake, regular price 25c. Therefore, we were indeed astonished to learn that the Badger Drug company intends to sell this soap next Saturday at 8c per cake at 8c.

Mr. McManis of the Badger Drug company states that they intend to celebrate their first anniversary next Saturday, therefore, they will give to each one of their friends and customers one cake of the celebrated cake at 8c. Don't miss this sale which is for one day only.

He will tell you—That barley-malt is a half-digested food, as good as food can be. That hops are an excellent tonic. That the little alcohol in beer—only 3 1/2 per cent—is an aid to digestion.

But Purity is Essential

But he will tell you that beer must be protected from germs, and brewed in absolute cleanliness.

He'll say, too, that age is important, for age brings perfect fermentation. Without it, beer ferments on the stomach, causing biliousness.

The Advance power paper cutting machine saves time over the old hand lever method and at the same time does the work much better. The

A BIT OF LIFE

A maiden sat within the door
And sang as many times before;
A man to daily toll passed by
No love or pleasure lit his eye;
But when he heard the merry song
He whistled as he went along.

A widow by the window wept,
For one who in the churchyard slept.
But when upon her hearing fell
That tune she knew and loved so well,
The flood of burning tears were stayed,
And soon a song her lips essayed.

Her neighbor heard her tender strain,
And softly joined that sweet refrain.
Thus, all day long—at one song bore,
Its joyousness from door to door.

This choice scrap of sentiment is from the pen of Clara J. Barton. It is so true to life that it merits more than passing notice.

There is so much of gloom and despondency, and so many lives are freighted with sorrow, that the world needs more of song and good cheer. The influence that one life has upon another, a very potent, yet not always appreciated. A young couple stand at the Altar and plight their faith and commence the journey together that stretches on into years for half a century. They have known each other from childhood and yet as they come to "summer and winter together" they find that the acquaintance was of the most casual sort.

The wife in girlhood was care free with every want anticipated. She never knew what it was to yield a point for demands were never made. Her own sweet will was supreme in the home, where only one side of life was developed.

The husband in boyhood was self-willed and stubborn. He had a pleasant word and a smile for society but a frown and ominous silence for the family circle.

The father gave him up as hopeless long before he was old enough to marry, and the mother taxed her love and ingenuity to please him.

The boy and the girl were both good, so far as moral character was concerned. During their days of courtship they had been on their good behavior, and they had painted in glowing pictures the cottage where the rhythm of two hearts beating in harmony would produce the sweetest melody.

But it was all a dream, and the rude awakening came before the honeymoon had ended, and when the first anniversary was celebrated, they knew each other thoroughly.

They have never quarreled to the extent of considering a divorce, but the year is not pleasant to contemplate. Two wills, which were not supposed to exist, have been arrayed against each other, and the battle has waged without many words, but with an intensity of feeling that has been absorbing.

Only one of the fifty years have passed, and the outlook is not very encouraging unless wisdom suggests a spirit of reconciliation. The husband has discovered that he can't be a mule in his own home because there is nothing that he can afford to kick, and it has dawned upon the wife that life is more than a holiday.

As they sit in the twilight, if common sense comes to their rescue they will bury the year out of sight, and with the old love renewed, take up the responsibilities of life, overlooking the bad and cherishing the good, until with advancing years there comes to dwell at the bedside, the harmony and devotion that inspired the song and smile as the crowning blessing of every day life.

It only takes a little ray of sunlight to penetrate the gloom, and light up dark corners. The single dew drop that sparkles on the face of the violet gladdens its heart and inspires to new life. The little snatch of song, the pleasant smile and the cheerful good morning refresh the heart of humanity and dispel the gloom.

If with the smile and word of good cheer the kindly deed is prompted, results are not difficult to trace, and they are always gratifying.

The martyr, at the stake belongs to the dark ages, but this is an age of every day heroes, when opportunities are presented on every hand to aid the weak and help the unfortunate. Much of this important work can be accomplished without money or great intellectual endowment, because inspiration is gathered from the heart, the fountain of life, and when this organ beats in sympathy with humanity, it unlocks a store house of gems, more beautiful than any that wealth can produce.

Two little messenger boys were chums. They should have been in school, but the hard hand of fate compelled them to work, at an age when a boy needs a home more than he will ever need it again.

Foster's mother was dead and his father had forsaken him, but he was full of energy and ambition to earn an independent livelihood. He was succeeding until a malignant disease laid him low, and then he fought for life with all the courage he possessed.

When the disease was conquered and he was on the road to recovery, his little comrade called to see him, but he hardly recognized the weak voice that said, "come" in answer to his knock at the door, and as he clasped his hand and looked into his face, the marks of suffering were so distinct that a tear trembled in his eye, and he said impulsively:

"Foster, you've got to get out of this and go to the country. I love would that suit you old chap."

A smile lighted up the face of the boy as he answered, "That would be fine Glen, but you might as well tell me that I ought to go to Europe. When we get rich we will live in the country but that won't be this year."

But Glen had a thought that came to him like an inspiration, and as he picked up his cap to go he said, "O I don't know, Europe is a long way off, but the country is close by, maybe you'll be there before you know it and the lad was gone."

The next Sunday a boy was trudging along a country road, half a dozen miles from town. He was whistling a merry tune, and anticipating the dinner he would enjoy with his brother, whose farm house stood on the hill a mile away.

He was out on a mission, and as his eye took in the landscape, and his ear caught the song of the birds, his heart was tuned to melody, and he said to himself, "Gee! won't Foster have a good time if John will only take him and give him a home for the summer."

The boy came back at night from his long walk in the country, tired, but happy in the thought that his plans had been successful, and there were two happy boys that discussed the scheme together in the Sunday night twilight.

Nothing very romantic, nothing very heroic, about this little scrap of every day history, yet something sublime, for it is the commonplace turned to account that enters into the structure of character. Material for this class of philanthropy is not lacking, but the workmen are all too few.

History is making with every day experience, and "a bit of life" is exposed between the dawn and the dusk of every cycle. The exposure contains much of sorrow and trouble that cannot be avoided and that is beyond the reach of human aid. It also contains much that appeals to sympathy too often withheld.

Opportunities for doing good are ever present, and never more abundant than today. The boy found his sanctuary on the country road, alone with nature for he was engaged in the highest order of service.

It may be a song, a word of good cheer, a kindly deed, but the heart that is inspired to act for the betterment of humanity, is prompted by the great heart of the Master, who went about doing good.

The work may be commonplace, but it is all important, and the world is redeemed by this kind of work.

If the Southern Wisconsin Interurban company buys the Janesville Street Railway company it would naturally seem that they would have all the franchise needed. It would hardly seem possible that they will make the purchase if an opposition franchise is granted. The council is placed in a delicate position, with many perplexing questions to consider, but it is safe to say that good judgment will influence action.

Some one asks the very pertinent question: "What's the use of a fence around the monument?" The Gazette is unable to answer. The shaft certainly does not need protection, and a fence would add nothing to its beauty. It has the appearance of a needless waste of money and an obstruction to the lawn. Better buy a few plants and spend the money for ornamentation.

The authorities at Washington, have finally become aroused to the fact that Chicago is spending five years on a government building that should have been completed in half the time. The government builds well, but there is so much red tape connected with the enterprise that it moves exceedingly slow. More business and less frills would be a good motto to adopt.

The last charge laid against Chicago is, that the dynamite bomb recently discovered on a wharf in New York was manufactured in the Windy City. Reputation is a hard thing to get away from, but New York has usually been able to sustain her reputation for that class of devilry.

Put the stone crusher in shape and keep it for future reference. There will be miles of new streets within the next ten years, and it may come in handy.

If Grover Cleveland thinks he will be president, he has another think coming. Mr. Bryan was troubled with the same sort of megalomania, but he is still an editor.

The action of the library board in adopting the open shelf system is heartily endorsed by public sentiment.

The third term is a good proposition to conjure with, but it is all a dream.

The strikes appear to prosper in spite of publicity.

There's many a slip 'twixt ambition and success.

PRESS COMMENT

Green Bay Advocate: There will be several chairs of athletics when Roosevelt becomes president of Harvard.

Marquette Eagle: Considering the small number of marriages in Marquette, the number of divorces is remarkable.

Madison Democrat: Instead of offering a bounty for the slaughter of crows these useful birds should be placed squarely under the protection of the law.

Chippewa Herald: The railway commission measure is now wandering aimlessly through the murky lower regions, searching for the disingenuous lower shade of the ship subsidy bill.

Hurley Miner: Anyhow the legislature is likely to make some changes in the game laws; only to have the people cuss a little later on because the said laws are not to their liking.

Milwaukee Free Press: The legislature will adjourn in a few days, but it still has time to keep one or two of the party's promises if the stalwart senators would only permit.

Wautoma Argus: The failure of the rate commission bill to pass in the assembly was a great blow to the administration which up to that time had been able to handle that branch of the legislature as it pleased.

OFFICE OF THE
Geo. A. Treadwell
Mining Company,

27 WILLIAM STREET, NEW YORK.

We have in our Iron Queen group of mines a well-defined vein proved three thousand feet in length and with a probable length of more than two miles, proved five feet in width at the minimum and widening out in places to forty feet, and at least two thousand feet in depth, with the probabilities in favor of its going below five thousand feet.

Taking the minimum measurements and multiplying the three thousand feet in length by the two thousand feet in depth and five feet in width, we get as the contents of the vein 30,000,000 cubic feet of ore, which will run ten cubic feet to the ton, giving us 3,000,000 tons. There is not profit in this of at least $10 a ton over all expenses of mining and milling. 3,000,000 tons at $10 a ton yield $30,000,000 in profit.

This is only from one group of our properties. In the Cliff and Brookshire groups I believe the ore bodies to be even larger, richer and more valuable, but it takes longer to get at them, and we have several other groups almost equally promising.

I have had too much practical experience in mining to indulge in visions. I would rather underestimate than overestimate results. When the United Verde stock was first offered for sale I was asked to estimate upon the probable production of the property, and my estimate came short of the reality. The same is true of my estimate of the Cliff Consolidated, with which I was connected. The people who bought the United Verde upon my recommendation have made three thousand per cent. upon their investment in ten years. The people who bought Green Consolidated—also upon my recommendation—have made five hundred per cent. in ten years. I believe that the stock of the GEORGE A. TREADWELL COMPANY at present prices is a better investment than the United Verde or Green Consolidated ever was. GEORGE A. TREADWELL, President.

STONE CRUSHING BY THE TONS

THE KNICKERBOCKER COMPANY
PLANT DOING MUCH WORK.

HOW THE GRAVEL IS SORTED

The Plant Itself Resembles a Mediaeval Castle in Its Appearance.

Twelve hundred and fifty tons of sand, gravel and crushed stone is the present daily average output of the Knickerbocker Ice Co.'s gravel pits south of Janesville.

To a passerby on the distant road, the huge building that contains this stone crushing plant resembles almost anything from a "blockhouse" left over from the days pictured in the Leather Stocking Tales of Cooper, to a huge river steamboat that might have strayed up from the Mississippi.

A big rectangular windowless building, towering over ninety feet in the air, it is a strange figure in the landscape. It is as old inside as it is externally, being a mass of belts, cables, and carriers, accessories to the stone crushing machinery. The gravel pit surrounds the building on all sides.

The Building
At the highest point of the structure is a large hopper which receives all the sand, gravel and stones. Above the hopper is a network of beams that support the cables on which runs the shovel. This shovel which resembles a dredge, dips, brings the material from the pit. It weighs twelve hundred pounds empty and has a capacity of one and a half cubic yards of gravel, when full its weight is sometimes as much as forty-five hundred pounds. It is now carrying the gravel a distance of nearly three hundred feet, from the bottom of the pit to the top of the building. The name of this machine is the Knickerbocker Trolley shovel. It averages 450 loads per day. From one hopper, the mixed sand, gravel and larger stones are run through large cylinders, 23 feet long and 48 inches wide, called screens, each perforated with different sized holes. A six-inch stream of water running through the material separates the particles and keeps all in motion.

Separate Grades
When the different grades have been forced through all the screens they are divided as follows: first is sand; then small pebbles up to 5-16 of an inch in diameter, these are called "Torpedos," and are used in making concrete sidewalks and foundations; the third size is from 5-16 to 5-8 of an inch. It is called roofing gravel and the name explains its use. The foregoing sizes are run from the screens to separate bins or loaded direct to cars. These bins each hold about twelve carloads. All the pebbles larger than 5-8 of an inch are run from the screens to the stone crushers, and come out broken to the proper size for paving highways. The finer fragments of this broken stone are separated and carried by means of belts to separate bins.

The Crushers
There are three big stone crushers to grind the large rock. They are made by the F. C. Austin Manufacturing company, Harvey, Ill. In a general way they work somewhat on the principle of the small coffee mill that is found in every kitchen. Each crusher is about ten feet in height, which gives an idea of their strength. The entire top of the building that contains the crushing hopper is moveable and can be turned in any direction, like a revolving turret on a warship. When the gravel has been removed from one part of the pit, the cables are stretched in another direction and the diggers begin at a new point in the hillside.

The Boilers
Three boilers with an engine of 100 horse power furnish the power for the plant. The furnaces burning between 8 and 9 tons per week, supply the water which is pumped into a fifty barrel tank on the roof. Nine men are all that are required to run the plant. Fred Nagel, superintendent; John Schultz, John Kane, engineers; Dan Durand, fireman.

The Knickerbocker company owns ten acres at the plant here, their main offices are in Chicago. Nearly thirty carloads are sent out daily at this time, the greater part going to Chicago.

WORKMEN HELD A JUBILATION

A. O. U. W. MEMBERS CELEBRATED THAYER'S ELECTION.

PLEASANT BANQUET WAS HELD

Speeches Were Made, and Everyone Rejoiced Over Added Honors.

J. M. Thayer's accession to the office of grand master of the Grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen after a sharp struggle in which several other candidates put up a hard fight, was fittingly commemorated last evening by a banquet of Olive Branch lodge, of which he has been a member since 1886.

Preparations for the occasion had been under way since the day, a week ago, when the tidings came that Mr. Thayer had been victorious at Milwaukee. The committee in charge was untiring in its efforts, and the banquet was carried out in a handsome style. The Workmen, about eighty in number, met at their hall and marched in a body to the Myers house where the banquet was served. The Orpheus Mandolin club furnished music while the feast was in progress.

Ex-Mayor Toastmaster
Victor P. Richardson acted as toastmaster of the evening and in entering upon the program of the evening he expressed his delight in presiding over such a meeting. He humorously explained Postmaster Nowlan's absence by an over supply of postal cards requiring careful reading. William Marsden was announced as the first speaker.

Mr. Marsden outlined the history of Olive Branch lodge, from its organization in August, 1878, when Judd's hall was the meeting place, until the present time when the membership roll shows 440 members. He attributed the vigorous life of the lodge in large part to the contagious energy of Mr. Thayer.

The Fraternal Body
Rev. R. C. Denison followed with a toast on the "Fraternal Side of Fraternal Orders." The burden of his remarks was the protective character of a fraternal organization in standing between the loved ones left by members at death, and an unsympathizing world. He advocates strengthening and protecting the phase of the order in every way, especially in keeping the insurance branch of the order on a firm footing.

der, laying especial stress on the part of the women in making social life pleasant.

Gran Master Workman
J. M. Thayer closed the list of toasts. He spoke appreciatively of the honor which had been done him, and hoped to prove himself deserving of it. He then outlined his connection with the lodge. In 1886 he became a member of the Olive Branch lodge, and at the end of the first year was overmaster. He was then elected Master Workman, the next December and sent as a delegate to the Grand lodge. Each year he advanced a step through the progressive ranks of the Grand Guide, Grand Overseer, Grand Foreman, and in 1896, Grand Master, an office which he held until 1901, when another Workman was given that post, to hold it until the next election. He trusted that through the office he might be able to bring honor upon the lodge of which he was a member.

After more music by the Mandolin club and a solo by George Hatch, the banquet came to a close.

The committee who engineered the jubilation consisted of John Keller, George Robinson, Fred Smith, Bernad Dunneville and William Marsden.

NIPPED IN BUD
LAST EVENING
What Might Have Been a Strike Was Quickly Settled by the Union.

An incipient strike was nipped at a meeting of the carpenters' union last evening. Bassett and Ebbin have been obliged to close their factory while moving from their present quarters to the new building. In order that none of their men might be laid off they were put to work yesterday in moving benches. The legs were taken from the benches, the benches moved, and the legs nailed on again.

All of the Bassett and Ebbin harness makers are union men, but they do not have tickets of membership in the carpenters' union. When the carpenters who are employed by Blair and Summers on the building saw the harness makers setting up benches they sent in their ultimatum.

"Union carpenters must set up those benches, or we will quit," they said.

The matter was carried to a meeting of the carpenters' union held last night, and it was there decided that the work of putting together the benches was not necessarily the work of carpenters, and now union carpenters and union harness makers are working side by side in the new factory building. It is estimated that about two weeks will be required before the company will be settled in their new quarters.

In Justice Court: Before Justice Earle the case of Carroll & Son versus Frank Coplin, has been adjourned till May 19th. Case of John Hansen versus Hans Gumes tried before jury, which found for the plaintiff. The case of A. C. Munger versus R. C. Johnson, adjourned till May 22nd. Case of A. C. Jenkins versus F. R. Hubbard and Martha, C. Jones, adjourned till June 12th. Case of Edward M. Renny versus Eric M. Haugen was adjourned to May 22nd.

AWAIT DECISION OF MACHINISTS

The Fairbanks-Morse Company Is Simply Waiting for the Next Move.

If the unions ratify the action of a committee of machinists who met at Beloit last evening with representative of the Fairbanks-Morse company it is believed that there will be no strike. The year's agreement between the machinists and the company should have been closed up yesterday evening, but the demands of a three-hour day and an increase in the minimum to 26 1/2 cents were not granted by the company and yet the committee did not advise a strike, on the part of the men. The company will not lockout the men, but it may be several days before the action to be taken by the machinists will be known.

MRS. EVA CHILDS
MUCH HONORED
Is Made Supreme Receiver of the Royal Neighbors of America.

Mrs. Anna Morse returned this morning from Indianapolis, where she has attended the national convention of Royal Neighbors of America as one of the two delegates from the first district of Wisconsin. It was only by the merest chance that she was not in the street car which was unaccountably.

Thursday night and crashed into another car, injuring about a dozen of the delegates, four of them so seriously that they are still in Indianapolis, too badly bruised to be moved.

Together with a number of others Mrs. Morse mounted the car which was one of three on which the delegates were to make a trolley excursion around the city. It was so crowded, however, that she decided not to accompany the party, and left the car. The accident occurred within a few minutes after she left.

The Wisconsin delegates are jubilant over the election of Mrs. Eva Child of Hanover as Supreme Receiver, the third office in rank of the supreme camp. For two years just Mrs. Child has been Supreme Marshal. Her victory was on the first ballot, the Wisconsin delegation being solid for the popular Rock county woman. One of her opponents in the race for the receivership withdrew.

WORK ON ENGINE MOST WONDERFUL

Manner in Which the Great Tires Are Fitted is Exceedingly Intricate.

It hardly seems possible that the tires, weighing over a thousand pounds, on locomotive engines, can be taken off and replaced without removing the wheels from the engine, yet it is being done every week or so down at the yards. Engine wheel tires, like other kinds, wear out occasionally. When new they last perhaps four years, depending upon the amount of work done by the engine. By that time a deep groove has been worn in the middle of the wearing surface, leaving a ridge on the outside edge of the tire. This edge must be removed and it can only be done at a regular railway machine shop. So the tire must come off and this is the way it is done.

Raise Engine

First the entire body of the engine is raised, so that the wheels leave the ground. Then one wheel is firmly clamped so that it cannot turn, then a bracket like arrangement is secured to the run, level with it at the highest point of the wheel. This bracket, which is nothing more than a rod strongly braced, is used to hold the tire when it is moved to and from the run. As the tire is only held to the run by the contraction of the steel, it is heated to loosen sufficiently to remove. This is done by means of an oil burner with peculiar shaped burners. These are bent so as to conform with the curve of the tire, and are placed directly under it. Crude oil is burned. A hood of sheet metal is then fitted entirely around the wheel, this is for the purpose of retaining the heat. An air blast then forces the oil through the burners and blows the flame around the entire circumference of the wheel. This makes an intense heat which in about fifteen or twenty minutes causes the big rim of steel to expand sufficiently to allow it to be slid from the wheel on to the bracket, where it hangs until cooled enough to be taken away. The diameter of a new tire is made only one-eighth of an inch smaller than the diameter of the wheel, so that the amount of contraction and expansion is only that small fraction of an inch, but it is sufficient to hold the tire to the wheel.

Tire is Thick

When new an engine tire is exactly three inches thick and they are good for service till they are worn down to one inch. Then they are too thin for further use and are consigned to the scrap pile.

The tires referred to above are those on the big wheels of the engine. The small wheels in front are made differently and are treated differently. When these small tires are worn out the entire wheel is removed and sent to the machine shop.

Most large engine tires are made by Krupp in Germany. Some are made in this country and there are extensive works at Midvale, Pennsylvania, where thousands of men are at work each day on this work.

A Blessing to Every Woman During Summer Months

It's nothing less than inhuman treatment to expect a woman to cook over a coal or wood range in a small kitchen, during the warm weather months. There is only one remedy—purchase a Gas Range. Hundreds here in Janesville have, and why not you? Coal and wood are now high enough and there is no telling when the high water price will be reached.
